DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. The specification is objected to as failing to provide proper antecedent basis for the claimed subject matter. See 37 CFR 1.75(d)(1) and MPEP § 608.01(o). Correction of the following is required: While the recitation within the current claims that “the chamber having a bigger cross-section than the separate flow channel”, has support within the originally filed drawings, the language is apparently absent from the instant specification.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 1-5, and 7-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Streiff et al (Figs. 11d, and 12; col. 2, lines 27-29; col. 3, lines 1-6, and 17-25; col. 4, lines 34-36).

Applicant should note that the chamber (46) defined by the tube (30) is larger in cross-section than the tubes (20,21), which supply the secondary gas and which tubes (20,21) together form the incorporated surface within the main flow channel.

4. Claims 1-5, 8, and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Isahaya (Figs. 1 and 2).

Art Unit: 1724

Applicant should note that the chamber (22) has a larger cross-section than the flow channels (21,31), which supply the secondary fluids to the incorporated surface (27) for delivery thereof into the main flow of gas (201) in the main channel.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

7. Claim 6 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over either of Isahaya or Streiff et al, taken in view of USSR 1599067 A1.

Isahaya (Figs. 1 and 2) and Streiff et al (Figs. 2, 11d, and 12; col. 2, lines 27-29; col. 3, lines 1-6, and 17-25; col. 4, lines 34-36) each substantially teach applicant's invention as recited by instant claim 6, except for the angle that the incorporated surface forms with the main gas flow direction being adjustable.

Art Unit: 1724

USSR 1599067 A1 (English Abstract; The Figure) disclose an apparatus similar to that of each of the alternative primary references, wherein the angle of the incorporated surface (5), which delivers a secondary fluid into the main gas flow through the apparatus, is adjustable as dictated by the properties of the main gas flow stream. It would have been obvious for an artisan at the time of the invention, to modify the structures of the incorporated surfaces of either of the alternative primary references, to be of adjustable orientation within the main gas flow, in view of the Soviet reference, since such would allow for either of the alternative primary reference apparatus to be readily adaptable to main gas streams of varying flow velocity and/or viscosity, among other variable stream parameters.

Response to Arguments

8. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-9 have been considered but are not found to be persuasive.

The rejection statements have been augmented to emphasize that the previously applied prior art references do in fact anticipate or render obvious the invention as claimed.

Conclusion

9. This is an RCE of applicant's earlier Application No. 09/884356. All claims are drawn to the same invention claimed in the earlier application and could have been finally rejected on the grounds and art of record in the next Office action if they had been entered in the earlier application. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL even though it is a first action in this case. See MPEP § 706.07(b). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

Art Unit: 1724

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no, however, event will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
